Why should Regulations & Standards be contextually linked?

Standards & Regulations are closely related and organizations need to manage both to ensure uninterrupted market access.

- Historically kept in siloed data applications
- No indication of whether you can use a standard to comply with a regulation
- No easy way to navigate between them

This setup has made managing the impact of Regulations & Standards changing on products and markets exceptionally difficult.

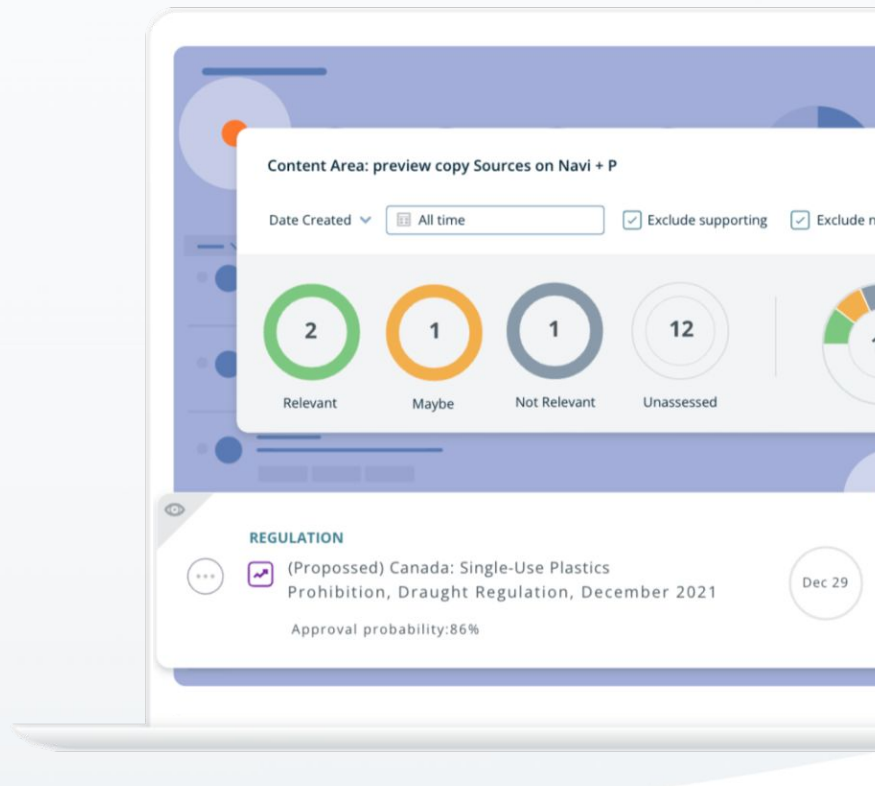

Customized Standards Alerts

- Daily alerts with references to Standards that apply to relevant products, topics and countries
- All linked to the relevant regulations

Product Assessments

- Mark Standards where relevant, link to your product hierarchy and assign tasks to team members to action what's required for your business
